IF America is drifting towards social revolution, or comes under the full sway of agitators nor by the vociferations of political or economic theorists, but it will be forced upon us by political conservatism and standpatism, profiteering with its resulting high cost of existence, by individual and class injustice at the hands of our courts, and the ruthless exploitation of the weak by the strong. Unrest, the native soil of social revolution, is abroad in the land. "Let him that thinketh he stands take heed lest he fall."—Rev. Rufus C. Baker, Orchard Park M. R. church. Park M. E. church.
